

COM 2290 – M/W 3:30 to 4:45

University College Room 122

Mass Media Law, Ethics and Diversity examines the basics of freedom of expression and press in the United States including freedom of information and access to government records.

Topics Include:

Freedom of expression in the U.S.

Access to local, state and federal government records

Ethical frameworks used by professional communicators

New media technologies

Approaches to defining diversity in media

Diversity and the media workplace

*For SOCM interest students –
May be substituted for your ICT 2101 in AREA F*